

MK Consultants IMS Integrated Safety, Environment and Quality Policy

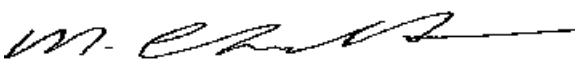

I am continually inspired by advances in technology. I created this business out of a desire to apply those technological advances to wireless solutions that enable our loved ones - our nearest and dearest - to live independently for longer. We take pride in our ability to provide people with safe and reliable products that enhance the lives of our end users, enabling a quality of life that they might not have had otherwise. We provide products that are always available and backed up by great support. Quality, quality, quality is our motto, and I'm proud for us to be seen as leading the way in terms of quality of life products and services.

To control operations, we have an integrated management system that meets the standards of ISO9001 (quality), ISO14001 (environmental) and ISO45001 (safety) and I'm committed to running a business where those three elements are at the heart of what we do. The system further ensures we are in continual compliance with the relevant legal, statutory and regulatory requirements. I value my staff, who are encouraged to participate at all levels, sharing feedback, ideas and suggestions that feed into continual improvements and management objectives. My managers and I put safety first and we encourage anyone with safety concerns to talk to us so we can do something about it.

I value my staff, who are encouraged to participate at all levels, sharing feedback, ideas and suggestions that feed into continual improvements. My managers and I put safety first and we encourage anyone with safety concerns to talk to us so we can do something about it. As a responsible, diverse and ethical employer I provide a clean, safe and secure working environment, free from hazard and risk. I believe competent staff are key to delivering what customers want, and I provide training on quality, safety and environment for all employees, encouraging them to apply good practice in all aspects of work and home life.

It's good to be in a position where my staff are as committed as me in ensuring that what we do has minimum impact on the environment and minimal risk of pollution. We minimise, reuse and recycle all packaging materials wherever possible, and have successfully moved from plastic to recyclable packaging for our own products. We all seek to protect the environment and prevent pollution as far as we can, with eco friendly initiatives and suggested alternatives in every area of the business.

This policy will be reviewed and revised as necessary at regular intervals.
